Charlotte D'Hulst working in Paul Feinstein lab has developed a transgenic mouse with enhanced capacity to smell the explosives used in landmines .This work was recenlty presented at the 2012 Society for Neurosciience meeting click here for the abstract . This work has also gotten wide press coverage including a report in
The Guadian

